Questions to keep in mind while you read:

What is God like?

How does this point to Jesus?

What stirs your affection for the Triune God?

What truth could you meditate on today?

What truth could you share with someone today?

What truth could inform your prayers today?

Words of advice:

- The point is to be reading your Bible—not to finish the Bible reading plan.
- Our hope is that your affection for the Triune God would be stirred, not that this effort would be burdensome.
- Block out time—know when and where you plan to do this reading.
- Audio counts! Consider listening to the day's reading. Listen as you read or to make up what you've missed.
- Remember that though all Scripture is equally inspired, not all of it is easy to follow. It may be prudent to skim some places of Scripture while you slow down in others.
- You could choose to read through only the OT or NT rather than both.
- If you fall behind, pick up where we are. Making up what you missed is optional.
- Keep track of questions while you read and then talk with another member about them.
